Says Jews Here And Of Israel Are Separate

Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion of Israel has emphasized that there is a clear political separation between the Jewish people of his nation and American Jews as well as those of other "free democracies of the world," Jacob Blaustein, president of the American Jewish Committee reported on his return from Israel to New York.

Mr. Blaustein, accompanied by Dr. Simon Segal, head of the committee's foreign affairs department, took part in a series of meetings with Prime Minister Ben-Gurion and other high-ranking Israeli officials. The purpose was to clarify the relationship between Israel and Jewish communities in other nations, particularly the American Jewish community.

The head of the American Jewish Committee also brought a statement issued by the Prime Minister at a recent meeting in Israel.

Mr. Blaustein said the statement made clear "without any reservation the State of Israel speaks only on behalf of its own citizens and in no way presumes to represent or speak in the name of Jews who are citizens of any country; and that the Jews of the United States, as a community and as individuals, have no political attachment to Israel."

The Prime Minister added:

"We, the people of Israel, have no desire and no intention to interfere in any way with the internal affairs of Jewish communities abroad. The Government and the people of Israel fully respect the right and integrity of the Jewish communities in other countries to develop their own mode of life and their indigenous social, economic and cultural institutions in accordance with their own needs and

U.S. Jews To Confer On Aid To Israel

A conference that will include representatives of every segment of American Jewish life will be called to New York in October to help solve Israel's economic and immigration problems, the late Magistrate Morris Rothenberg, general chairman of the United Palestine Appeal, announced when he arrived in New York from Israel, just prior to his sudden death. He and forty-three other American business and community leaders had met recently with Prime Minister Ben-Gurion and other Israeli officials. The October meeting, to be sponsored by the United Jewish Appeal, would be aimed specifically at implementing decisions recently reached in Jerusalem.

Magistrate Rothenberg had said: Israel had reached a "critical juncture" in its existence because of acute economic difficulties stemming from the record influx of immigrants. Israel, he added, had received more than 450,000 immigrants and that the new country expected 600,000 additional Jews within the next three years.

The October conference, Magistrate Rothenberg said then, "will acquaint American Jewry with the motivations of the decisions arrived at in Jerusalem and the necessity of speedy action, particularly for the raising of mammoth cash through the United Jewish Appeal."

The conference also will formulate plans for stimulating private investment in Israel, he added.

The United Palestine Appeal is the chief beneficiary of the United Jewish Appeal. Dr. Harris J. Levine, president of the Jewish National Fund, who also returned from the conference, declared that the fund was establishing "work villages" in Israel to take care of 25,000 Jews.

U.P.A. Head Dies Suddenly at 66

Magistrate Morris Rothenberg, sixty-six, national chairman of the United Palestine Appeal and a leading American Zionist, collapsed and died on September 17 at the Biltmore Hotel, in New York, after he had twice addressed a meeting of the national executive committee of the Zionist Organization of America.

With him in the meeting room at the time of his death were his wife, Dr. Mona Williams Rothenberg, and Zionist leaders including Benjamin G. Browdy, president of the Z.O.A., and Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver, of Cleveland, Ohio.

A funeral service was held at the Rabbi Stephen Wise Free Synagogue, 30 West Sixty-eighth Street, with Rabbi Edward E. Klein of the synagogue officiating. Rabbi Israel Goldstein of Congregation B'nai Jeshurun delivered a eulogy. Burial was made in Westchester Hills Cemetery of the Stephen Wise Free Synagogue, Hastings on Hudson.

Magistrate Rothenberg returned from Israel after participating in the emergency conference of American Jewish leaders and Israeli officials called by Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion to devise means for helping Israel overcome its economic difficulties. At the Zionist meeting, which had been called to hear reports from persons who attended the meetings in Israel, Magistrate Rothenberg made an impassioned plea for the American Zionist movement to continue and increase its aid to Israel.

A moderate in internal Zionist and Jewish affairs, Magistrate Rothenberg supported Henry Morgenthau jr. and Henry Monter when a number of other Zionist leaders sought to oust them from top posts in the United Jewish Appeal, says the New York Herald Tribune. Shortly thereafter Magistrate Rothenberg was named acting national chairman of the United Jewish Appeal, a post he held until [illegible] when he was elected national chairman, and was named one of the national chairmen of the U.J.A.

For six years before he resigned to head the U. P. A. Magistrate Rothenberg was president of the Jewish National Fund of America, an organization of various Zionist groups dedicated to land purchase in Israel. He was president of the Zionist Organization of America in 1932, 1933, 1934 and 1936.

In 1929, along with Dr. Chaim Weizmann, Louis Marshall and Felix Warburg, he played an important role in enlarging the Jewish Agency for Palestine, and he and Lord Melchett, of London, were named co-chairmen of the International Council of the agency. He was a member of the actions committee of the World Zionist Organization and was an American delegate to World Zionist Congresses in 1920, 1923, 1925, 1929, 1933 and 1935. In May, 1950, he was a delegate to the actions committee meeting in Jerusalem.

He was one of the incorporators of the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, an agency helping needy Jews abroad, and was a member of the J.D.C.'s executive committee. In February, 1947, the Jewish National Fund named one of its settlements in Israel for Magistrate Rothenberg. He was one of the founders of the National Jewish Welfare Board and the American Jewish Conference.

In 1932, after his election as president of the Z. O. A., he was honored at a dinner where messages of praise were read from then President Hoover, President-elect Roosevelt and then Governor Herbert H. Lehman. Magistrate Rothenberg was appointed to a ten-year term on the bench by the late Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia in 1937, and was reappointed in 1947 by former Mayor William O'Dwyer.

He was born in Dorpat, Esthonia, and was brought to the United States in his childhood. He was graduated from New York University Law School in 1905. While in private practice he was counsel for several labor unions, and figured in a number of important injunction cases.

Mr. Morgenthau issued a statement declaring that Magistrate Rothenberg "died as a soldier in the struggle for Jewish freedom and independence." Dr. Goldmann, chairman of the World Confederation of General Zionists, issued a statement saying that "the Zionist movement and the Jewish people have lost a wise and faithful leader. He was one of the first to win non-Zionists to the cause of a Jewish national home . . . the State of Israel which he helped to build is the living monument to his memory."

He lived at 110 West Fifty-seventh Street, New York. Surviving, in addition to his wife, are two children by a former marriage, a son, Nathaniel Rothenberg, and a daughter, Miss [illegible] Rothenberg.

163,000 Left Europe And Moslem Areas

"Operation Magic Carpet," a rescue program begun in November, 1948, to fly Jews from Yemen to Israel, has ended, virtually all of Yemen's 50,000 Jews having emigrated, it was announced by Edward M. M. Warburg, chairman of the Joint Distribution Committee which conducted the rescue operation.

Mr. Warburg, at the same time, in a message marking the Jewish New Year, 5711, warned that at least 75,000 other Jews in Europe and the Moslem world who are waiting a chance to get to Israel will be unable to do so because the J.D.C. will have used up all its funds allocated for emigration work. The J. D. C. receives its funds in the United States from the United Jewish Appeal.

Mr. Warburg noted that since the last Jewish holiday period a year ago the J. D. C. has helped 163,000 Jewish refugees from Europe and Moslem areas to find new homes.

"Word has trickled back, however," he added, "to Jews in Poland, Iran, Iraq, Tripoli and D. P. Europe that J. D. C.'s emigration funds are almost exhausted. Tens of thousands who have an opportunity to emigrate now, which they may never have again, and who had hoped to celebrate next Rosh Hashonah in Israel and other free lands, are today looking imploringly to American Jewry for rescue."

In keeping with the holiday season, Mr. Warburg said, the J. D. C. had sent special food allowances, prayerbooks and other religious articles to Jews in twenty countries overseas.

Mizrachi May Quit Over Demands

[illegible] which the Mizrachi [illegible] Zionist movement in Israel has presented to it during the past weeks, the Mizrachi movement contemplates leaving the coalition government, a leader of the World Federation of General Mizrachi Zionists declared in New York. Rabbi Dr. I. Solomon Rosenberg, formerly of Hartford, Conn., vice-chairman, who returned from Israel, said that the religious-Zionists' demands of the present coalition government involve religious and economic relationships. He said that administrators within the present government have openly violated agreements reached between the United Religious Bloc and the government, which were the basis for the Religious Bloc's joining the present coalition. The World Mizrachi executive last month adopted a resolution of lack of confidence in one of the administrators, Mr. Dov Joseph, Minister of Supply and Rationing which, Rabbi Rosenberg stated, amounts to a vote of lack of confidence in the government itself.

He explained that the resolution of no confidence against Minister Joseph was provoked by his recent promulgation of a rationing law covering the sale of shoes and clothing. The Mizrachi leader said his movement was not opposed to the fact of rationing itself, but was opposed to the method in which the rationing order was issued, and its implementation. Claiming that the rationing program of Minister Joseph would destroy small businessmen in Israel, Dr. Rosenberg pointed out that the regulation was issued without prior notice to merchants, and that no attempt was made to cushion its harmful effects on their businesses. He said his movement could understand the need for rationing of necessities, but found it impossible to comprehend why luxuries need come under the curb.

Rabbi Rosenberg charged that the rationing regulations were purposefully designed to create one social class in Israel. In other words, he asserted, Minister Joseph wants all the people to dress alike, that is in khaki shirts and trousers. Therefore, the Mizrachi spokesman added, the rationing regulation is a social as well as an economic weapon against those who do not accept Minister Joseph's social ideology.

Jews Overseas Look To Those Here

Rabbi Harold H. Gordon, general secretary of the New York Board of Rabbis, who completed a nine-week mission in a study of Jewish religious life in fifteen countries, reported that the "survival of the Jewish people in Europe and North Africa depends equally upon the moral and spiritual aid of American Jewry as actual material and physical support."

At the offices of the board, which represented about 500 Orthodox, Conservative and Reform rabbis in New York State, Rabbi Gordon emphasized that European and North African Jews were "in urgent need of knowing that American Jews are interested in them morally and spiritually."

Rabbi Gordon strongly recommended that the American Jewish community, headed by rabbinical and religious leaders, undertake a "point four" plan aimed at providing religious and moral support to Jews overseas.

He said that he had conferred with religious heads in various Jewish communities of the countries he visited and that he would make a series of recommendations to the next executive meeting of the New York Board of Rabbis. The general offices of the board are at 130 West Forty-second Street.

The recommendations, Rabbi Gordon added, call for official contact with the rabbinical leaders and religious communal heads of the Jewish communities he visited "with a view of exchanging information on common religious problems and establishing methods of cooperation between them and the American Jewish community."

He also would stimulate a program for providing adequate support, or finding means for such support from existing agencies, to those centers and communities overseas where Jewish religious life [illegible]

Famous Editor Hailed At 90

Leaders of labor, Jewish cultural life and friends and associates honored Abraham Cahan, veteran editor of the Jewish Daily Forward, at a luncheon in the Commodore Hotel, in New York, to commemorate the ninetieth birthday of the Russian-born newspaper man.

The "family party," originally intended for 1,000 persons, was expanded to 1,500 as requests poured in for reservations. Mr. Cahan has edited the Forward for fifty-three years and has played a major part in the organization of needle trade unions in New York.

A score of speakers praised the nonagenarian's fight in behalf of the labor movement and other causes. Those who sent greetings included President Truman; Governor Dewey; Herbert Morrison, Lord President of Great Britain's Privy Council; David Ben-Gurion, Prime Minister of Israel; and Senator Herbert Lehman.

The President said:

"Your ninetieth birthday is an important milestone, not only for you but for the democracy you have so faithfully served. Your contribution has been great."

Heading the list of speakers was William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. He paid tribute to Mr. Cahan as "journalist-publisher, a man of vision, faith, courage and confidence."

Mr. Cahan fled Czarist Russia sixty-eight years ago when a revolutionary youth club to which he belonged was raided by the police, says the New York Times. In New York he attended school, being the only adult in a classroom of American-born children. In 1897 he and some associates established the Jewish Daily Forward.

Mr. Cahan was greeted by repeated bursts of applause when he [illegible]

MARRIAGES

WITKOV-RITTER

The marriage of Miss Barbara Deena Ritter, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Bernard M. Ritter, of Lowell, Mass., to Dr. Hyman Ronald Witkov, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Gutter, of Val Morin, took place on Sunday, July 30, at five o'clock, in the garden of the home of the bride's parents, Rabbi Joseph Warren officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of ivory-shaded satin and nylon. Designed with fitted satin bodice, deep net yoke edged in Alencon lace, and scattered with iridescent sequins, it had a full satin skirt draping into a train. She had a triple-tiered white seed-pearl-bead crown, with a fingertip-length veil, and carried a bouquet of white orchids and a bible. Miss Claire Weinstein, Cote St. Luc Road, Montreal, was maid of honour, wearing a gown of beige lace, with fitted bodice, and wing-effect neckline, with a full, ankle-length skirt. Her bouquet and matching headband were of yellow roses. Miss Donna Ritter, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid, wearing a gown of chartreuse-shaded marquisette, trimmed with Alencon lace, and carried a Colonial nosegay of seasonal flowers and ribbons to match her dress. Clarence Herman, of New York, was best man. Wedding music was played. On the lawn there was a canopy of white gladioli, white delphiniums, and white larkspur; and the aisle was lined with baskets of these flowers. At the reception at home, seasonal flowers in a variety of shades were used to decorate. Mrs. Ritter, mother of the bride, received in a robin's-egg blue crepe dress, with a strapless-effect neckline, and trimming of Chantilly lace, with a side-cascade of lace, and a matching three-quarter-sleeved lace jacket. She had a corsage of white orchids. The bride and groom spent their wedding trip in Bermuda, the bride travelling in a plum-coloured suit, with a mink-shaded hat, cocoa-coloured veil, and black velvet accessories. The couple are living at 4490 Ridgevale Avenue, Montreal. Mrs. Witkov studied at Smith College, and is entering McGill University this fall. Dr. Witkov is a graduate of the Medical School of the University of Montreal, and of Columbia University. Mr. and Mrs. Martin Stein and family; Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Pinsky, Harold Loomer, Miss Claire Weinstein, and brothers, David and Abraham Weinstein, all of Montreal, were wedding guests.

A portion of the extensive library of Dr. Augusta Bronner and her husband, Dr. William Healy, foremost authorities on the psychology of children and juvenile delinquents, has been given to the Brandeis University Library, at Waltham, Mass. Comprising almost 500 books and periodicals, many of them now out of print, the volumes will provide the nucleus for the University's psychology collection.

Mouthpiece Of Neo-Nazism As A Global Movement

BY ROBERT S. MARCUS, NEW YORK DIRECTOR OF THE WORLD JEWISH CONGRESS

The war now being waged in Korea has shifted the attention of much of the world away from Germany to the military events in the Korean countryside. Those who are aware of the complex ramifications of the East-West conflict, however, will be among the first to recognize that the Korean war will have its repercussions in Germany. Thus developments in Germany, including the growth of neo-Nazism cannot, even now, be under-emphasized.

Those who have followed post-war developments in Western Germany have been concerned over the failure of Allied aims, particularly their denazification and democratization programs and the evidence of dangerous trends manifest in frequent occurrences of an extremely nationalistic, militaristic and anti-Semitic nature. The World Jewish Congress has had occasion to submit to the governments concerned detailed evidence of such trends and events. It is doubtful, however, whether public opinion is sufficiently aware of the general resurgence and nature of neo-Nazism as a global movement, whose function it is to act as an efficient tool of German imperialism by attempting to integrate all groups of German origin throughout the world in behalf of the struggle for world domination. Its methods include the use of anti-Allied propaganda, glorification of German militarism, fostering of Pan-Germanism and attacks upon democracy, the Jews, and other ethnic groups.

The writer is unaware of any attempt so far made to analyze the farreaching aims and the clever techniques of neo-Nazism, although isolated instances of pro-Nazism in several overseas countries have been exposed. Many are of the opinion, for example, that the present circle of Nazis is exclusively composed of "old-timers" who hope for a return of the days of Hitler, Himmler, Heydrich, and the Horst Wessel song. Overwhelmed by the great tragedy of the Jewish catastrophe, Jewish public opinion is not sufficiently aware of Nazi history during the final days of the Third Reich, the various changes wrought through the war and the occupation of Europe, and the internal struggle between the leadership of the different party factions during the last few years of Hitler's rule. Even less is known concerning the impact of total defeat and the course of world politics since 1945 on Nazi program and planning.

Characteristic of their present tactics is the fact that the neo-Nazis are quite willing to make far-reaching adjustments and compromises in their blue-prints for the future in order to accommodate their aims to the changing world scene. It should be remembered that the collapse of Nazi Germany brought about the destruction also of the political and the intellectual forces which led and inspired the movement and that there is no element in Germany at the present time which can claim recognition as the guiding light of Nazi thought and program.

Thus the task of the neo-Nazis is to evolve an ideology and program which would be generally acceptable to the remnants of the old movement and those who can be won for the new. Those who would develop Nazism in the post-war period understand that this requires a change from some of the previously accepted methods and ideas. Furthermore, they appear to feel that they can best initiate the implementation of their plans outside of Germany, despite the general apathy on the part of the Allied occupation forces towards political groups which represent the Nazi-minded sector of the population.

It is in the light of the foregoing that we must understand the significance of Der Weg, published as a monthly in Buenos Aires. This magazine is today the most important spokesman of neo-Nazism and the clearing house for the diversified ideas which are intended to serve as the ideological basis for that reconstituted movement. It is not a contemporary successor to such notorious propaganda instruments as Goebbel's Der Voelkische Beobachter or Streicher's Stuermer.

Printed in the German language, its articles are of a high intellectual level and give evidence of the deep political insight of those who manage its affairs. Its Chronicle of Events shows a thorough understanding of public affairs all over the world, including Latin America, British-occupied territories, South Africa, the Far East and even Israel. One of its important functions is to coordinate all fields of Nazi thought and to interpret world events through the eyes of Nazi ideology.

Among the numerous authors who discuss political affairs in Der Weg are Dr. Bruno Peter Kleist, formerly in charge of Eastern Affairs at the German Foreign Office; Dr. Sven Hedin, the famous explorer and well-known philo-German; Miss Freda Utley; A. O. Tittman (Middlebury, Vermont); the foremost ace of Hitler's Luftwaffe, Col. Hans Ulrich Rudel; the well-known German agent, Carl Freiher von Merck; the leader of the Sudetendeutsche — now in Germany — Rudolf von Lodgman-Aue; Pierre Delmy, Marc Augier and Jean Azena, representatives of the most radical pro-Vichy and pro-Nazi wing in France. Equally significant is the impressive number of writers of fiction whose pens served the cause of the German Reich and who are now rallying around Der Weg. Some of the more significant writers are Erwin Guido Kolbenhoyer, Bruno Brehm, Knut Hamsun, Alphonse von Czibulka, Josef Wehner, Josef Weinheber, and Mircu Jelusich.

JEWISH LAW FOR MEN IN THE ARMED FORCES

BY DR. SOLOMON B. FREEHOF, CHAIRMAN OF THE DIVISION OF RELIGIOUS ACTIVITIES OF THE JEWISH WELFARE BOARD

In the year before D Day we had large armies in the British Isles. Many soldiers died of sickness and of accidents. The Graves Registration Service decided that the soldiers who died in hospitals in the British Isles should be embalmed before burial. Embalming is contrary to Jewish law. To what extent then should we demand separate procedures for men of Jewish faith who died in the British Isles? Manifestly it would add greatly to the burdens of the army preparing for D Day if it had to establish different procedures in such cases. We decided that owing to the exigencies of wartime, we would accept temporarily the opinion of the one great authority (Solomon ben Aderth, 13th century) who did not oppose embalming.

Before even the government had decided on its policy of disinterring and repatriating the bodies of men buried overseas, we were asked to give our opinions on the following questions. Is disinterment contrary to Jewish law? Is a religious ceremony required at the disinterment? Is it necessary to have Jewish personnel on the ships accompanying the bodies to the United States, or escorting the bodies from the port to their home? Is a religious service required at the reinterring of the bodies (the Army and Navy needed to know the latter because it involved the assignment of chaplains to these tasks if they were necessary).

To the first part of the question we answered that disinterment is permitted when bodies are buried with the intention of later moving them, as is clearly the case here. Or if they are buried in places where the cemetery cannot be guarded, as may well be the case in certain parts of Europe and in certain Pacific Islands. Also, disinterment is permitted in order to reinter the body in family burial grounds (al kever avos). Therefore, we agree to the disinterment. The other questions were a little more difficult since there is little precedent in the law with regard to them; but we did find sufficient precedent upon which to base an answer.

In recent months, most of our questions come from the Veterans Hospitals. They deal with the tragic cases of the paraplegic, or with the insane (a woman wanted to know whether she could get a Jewish divorce from an insane husband who is in a neuro-psychiatric hospital), or the burial of a limb amputated from a patient in an operation in a veterans hospital, and similar questions.

The work of the committee is now greatly diminished, but interesting questions continue to come up. Such questions as chiefly involve the civilian life of a soldier, divorce and marriage, etc., we avoid. In the question mentioned above, that of obtaining a divorce from an insane husband, we did not make a decision, but gave the facts for the information of the chaplain and directed him to consult Orthodox authorities, since man and wife were Orthodox.

It should be recorded that the American government was endlessly considerate of the religious needs of the men of all faiths. This considerateness is nowhere seen more clearly than in the constant consultation with the Response Committee of JWB's Division of Religious Activities by every branch of the service.

DAUGHTER OF LATE U.S. ENVOY TO WED SOON

The marriage of Miss Dulcie-Ann Steinhardt, daughter of Mrs. Laurence A. Steinhardt and the late Mr. Steinhardt, United States Ambassador to Canada, to Flight Lieut. Allan A. Sherlock of the Royal Canadian Air Force, aide de camp to the Governor General of Canada, Viscount Alexander of Tunis, and son of Mrs. George Sherlock, of Toronto, Ont., will take place in Ottawa on the afternoon of October 7, in All Saints Church. The ceremony will be performed by Flight Lieut. E. W. S. Gilbert of Air Force Headquarters, Ottawa, and will be followed by a reception at the Rockville Air Station officer's mess.

Miss Steinhardt has chosen her cousin, Mrs. Albert J. Erdmann Jr. of New York, as her matron of honor. The other attendants will be the Hon. Rose Alexander, Misses Helen Claxton, Elizabeth Abbott, Madeleine Steen, Pauline Pillet, and Anne Bethune.

Flight Lieut. Eric Sherlock will be best man for his twin brother. The ushers will be Wing Comdr. D. J. Jackson, Squadron Leader D. MacWilliams, Flight Lieut. James John, Flight Lieut. Eric Smith, Flight Lieut. H. Keane and Lieut. Richard Rosenblatt, U. S. A. F., a cousin of the bride.

The prospective bride's father served as United States Minister to Sweden and also was Ambassador to Peru, Russia, Turkey, and Czechoslovakia. The bride is a grandniece of the late Samuel Untermyer. Miss Steinhardt will be given in marriage by her cousin, Judge Irwin Untermyer of New York.

The centenary of the Argentine liberator, José de San Martin, was marked by laying the foundation stone at the Weizmann Institute of Science in Rehovot of a building bearing the name of the South-American hero. The building, being built by Argentine Jewry, will house Latin Americans visiting Israel for scientific and research purposes. The Knesset (Parliament) Speaker, Joseph Sprinzak, acting President in the absence of President Chaim Weizmann abroad; Argentine Minister Pablo Manguel; and the Israeli Minister of Buenos Aires, Yaakov Zur, were among the speakers.

It is interesting to note that in details of approach and evaluation, considerable freedom of action is permitted its contributors, including the "right" to criticize certain aspects of the late Nazi regime and the tactical blunders of its leadership. Thus, for instance, Dr. Kleist sharply criticized Hitler's policies toward the large populations of the occupied territories in Eastern Europe. In a series of articles he elaborated the view that the brutal treatment of the civilian population in that area was the cause not only of the loss of the war against the Soviet Union, but of the total defeat and collapse of Germany as well; that had they been treated humanely the "enslaved populations" would have welcomed the invaders as liberators from the Communist yoke. Kleist places the failure to enlist the support of the peoples of Eastern Europe at the door of Alfred Rosenberg, at that time Reichminister for the occupied territories in the East, and Erich Koch, Nazi Commissioner General for the Ukraine.

Aside from criticism of Nazi strategy during the war, however, the contributors to Der Weg support the aims and methods of Hitler Germany, subscribing to the thesis that the establishment of a highly militarized, industrialized, single party state under authoritarian leadership can restore the German people and nation within a short time to a position of leadership in world affairs. The political approach of this neo-Nazi organ calls for the building up of Germany within a German-dominated Western and Central Europe as an independent Third World Power equal in importance with the United States and the Soviet Union. In following this line, it keeps scrupulously aloof from the East-West conflict and is frequently both anti-American and anti-Russian.

According to Der Weg, Europe no longer exists. It is partly an Asiatic and partly an American province which must be united under German leadership and strengthened by the adoption of an authoritarian system along Nazi lines. In a spirit of realism, it admits that Germany will be unable to keep out of any war which may involve the continent and even prepares its readers for the great sacrifices which will have to be made. Yet it preaches the doctrine that if the Germans as individuals refrain from taking sides, the German nation can emerge from such a struggle as an independent force of the first magnitude.

The pages of Der Weg are replete with condemnation of those international institutions and concepts of international law which have emerged during the post-war period. Strong criticism is voiced of the United Nations, the Marshall Plan, the Atlantic Pact, the entire program of denazification and the trials and punishment of war criminals. The criticism is voiced in many ways, including rather crude tales of Allied atrocities — "the Americans and Russians murdered the Jews of Europe" — to learned and exceedingly shrewd discussions of the shortcomings of democracy and the weak legal basis for conducting the war crimes trials.

It is characteristic that these neo-Nazis no longer look to Eastern Europe for additional living space. Instead they have turned their eyes toward the continent of Africa where the influence of the European colonial powers — the British, the French, the Spanish, and the Belgian — is very great and where American influence and Russian interference have been comparatively insignificant up to the present time. The movement of the colonial peoples to establish independent states in Africa is hardly in its infancy, whereas Asia, much to the chagrin of Der Weg and its cohorts, has seen the rise of a number of such new states in recent years.

Africa must therefore be retained as a colonial territory whose populations, raw materials, living space and strategic areas (in time of war) must be exploited for the benefit of Europeans. The establishment of a European-African bloc, from the North Cape to Capetown, under German domination would effectively separate the Russian and American zones of influence. It therefore strongly supports "white man rule" and attacks all efforts to improve the legal, political, and economic situation of the colored races all over the world.

It is hardly necessary to add that Der Weg strongly opposes the occupation regime in Germany, its re-education program and its attempt to introduce democratic institutions on the German scene. It treats the Republic of Austria as part of the "Fatherland." It contends that the Sudetenland was annexed by Hitler on the basis of an international understanding (Munich) and fosters allegiance to the German Reich among the German minorities in South Denmark and in the Italian Trentino. The same Pan-Germanism is fostered among German groups overseas which are serviced by a number of minor local newspapers in some of the Latin American republics, in the territory of former German

is FIRST in

A Big, impressive, powerful car — with generous room for six . . . Canadian engineered for Canadian conditions and for economical operation — all this at a price that's far, far lower than the cost of any comparable car!

With value like Chevrolet's it's no wonder that in a recent impartial survey among thousands of motorists from coast to coast, Chevrolet proved to be in greater popular demand than any other car.

More Chevrolets are sold in Canada than any other make! In the past five years, Canadians have bought over 50,000 more Chevrolets than any other make — and the lead is growing every day, in all parts of the country!

LOW FIRST COST · REPUTATION · ECONOMY

LOW FIRST COST — Compare price tags first! Then examine the car — inside, outside, under the hood. Chevrolet is priced among the lowest of all — far below any comparable car! And it's a full-sized six-passenger car — safe, impressive.

REPUTATION — Thousands of motorists recently named Reputation as the leading reason for voting Chevrolet their favorite motor car, in a survey conducted from coast to coast, among owners of all makes.

ECONOMY — Chevrolet's highly-improved more powerful engine features a new carburetor that not only steps up performance but means even greater economy of operation. And owners agree Chevrolet costs less for maintenance service than other cars.

STYLING · PERFORMANCE · DEPENDABILITY

STYLING — Inside and out, Chevrolet's a style star! Above all, the new Chevrolet's lines have a quality look — the look of a big, impressive motor car . . . and that's just what this Chevrolet is!

PERFORMANCE — This year, as every year, Chevrolet clearly out-performs its rivals . . . on super-highways, on back concessions, in stop-start traffic. And Chevrolet's performance stays brilliant!

DEPENDABILITY — Complete dependability — that's the Chevrolet by-word! Superb engineering for Canadian conditions, plus skilled service at modest cost by authorized dealers everywhere keep maintenance costs down, dependability up!

SAFETY · ROOMINESS · TRADE-IN VALUE

SAFETY — Chevrolet gives you greater safety! Powerful, heavy steel box-girder frame . . . new more rigid Bodies by Fisher . . . big wraparound bumpers . . . exclusive Certi-Safe Hydraulic Brakes . . . and ample power to pull you out of danger in a tight spot!

ROOMINESS — Chevrolet's a six passenger car, for sure! There's no more squeezing in, but room aplenty for six grownups to ride in comfort on extended trips. And Chevrolet's convenient trunk has amazing capacity — it's bigger than ever before.

TRADE-IN VALUE — Because Chevrolet is first in the low-price field with all the qualities that Canadians want most . . . because it's renowned for long life, Chevrolet is the favorite among used-car buyers as well as new. That means a higher trade-in value for you!

West Africa and in the United States.

The complete picture of Nazi reorientation requires at least brief mention of its present attitude toward the "Jewish question." It is obvious that the old anti-Jewish slogans no longer fit the framework of the new political line. On the one hand, the tension between the United States and the Soviet Union has eliminated an important basis for the anti-Jewish global campaign according to which "both countries, under Jewish domination, were bent upon destroying Germany". On the other hand, the establishment of the State of Israel has created the "basis" of a new and quite novel theory upon which to hang the myth of the Jewish "menace".

From a number of scattered items which have appeared in Der Weg during the past several months, it is possible to summarize its present anti-Jewish policy. The State of Israel is treated with a certain aloofness, although the opinion has been voiced that the pressure of historic events will bring the new Germany and Israel closer together. This assumption is based on Israel's desire to maintain its neutrality in the "Cold War", which coincides with the Nazi blueprint of the future in which Germany will control an entire bloc of such countries. Another reason may be the great loss of prestige suffered by the Arab States in Nazi eyes because of their dismal showing in the war against Israel. They are no longer regarded as valuable allies and have been relegated to the same rank as the colored peoples of the world. There have been violent attacks against the Grand Mufti and expressions of regret that Hitler had endorsed him and his policies.

On the other hand, the establishment of the State of Israel is now used as a basis for the campaign against Jews outside that country. By cleverly utilizing certain extremist voices in Israel, the neo-Nazis declare that every Jew who does not "return" to Israel has lost his right to speak for the Jews and therefore to participate in the public affairs of the country of his residence on their behalf. In this connection the main attack is concentrated against those Jewish officials connected with the trials of the Nazi war criminals.

This approach to the Jewish question appears to be serving as a smokescreen behind which the Nazis are withdrawing from their old line of racial anti-Semitism. The crimes committed against the Jews by Hitler's Germany are referred to as the unfortunate result of yielding to the extreme demands of the radical elements within the Nazi Party. The extermination of the Jews is no longer represented as a guiding principle of the Third Reich, which Hitler desired to perpetuate in the political testament written a few hours before his death.

This anti-Jewish aspect of global neo-Nazism may be considered as highly characteristic of the yet undefined policy and program which, through such clarifying instruments as Der Weg, will ultimately decide the path through which a new Greater Germany may try once again to reach its goal as a leading world power.

Israel Is Torn By Divergent Elements Within Jewry

Israel, born of a religious faith, is torn today by divergent elements within that religion, writes Ralph Chapman, in the New York Herald Tribune. Differences among orthodox, non-orthodox and ultra-orthodox Jews may cause serious internal political repercussions unless they can be resolved, according to officials and others in this Holy City.

"I think that this dissension can become serious enough for the religious group to leave the coalition government," Chief Rabbi Isaac Herzog said in a recent interview.

He referred to the United Religious Front, a combination of four separate political parties, which has sixteen seats in the Knesset (Parliament) and three members of the Cabinet. The Front describes itself as "agreeing with the government's internal and external policy but insisting on religion as the foundation of the state and its institution." Its Cabinet members are Rabbi J. L. Fishman, Minister of Religion; Rabbi Y. M. Levine, Minister of Social Welfare and Moshe Shapiro, Minister of the Interior and of Immigration and acting Minister of Health.

There is probably not a Jew in Israel who does not consider himself faithful to his church, but a population drawn from almost every corner of the globe has various ideas as to what that faith entails. Men and women questioned as they sat in sidewalk cafes close to Tel Aviv's Mediterranean seafront on the Sabbath insisted that they felt themselves as religious as the zealots in the Mea Shearim quarter of this city who stone even diplomatic automobiles that move on Saturday and who post placards inveighing against women and girls whose dresses reveal bare arms and legs.

"I came here and fought for Israel against the Arabs," said a young Jew from England. "I am staying and raising a family here. I work six hard days a week. Must I give up the pleasure of smoking on my one day off simply because of an old, outmoded religious law against making new fire on the Sabbath?"

Taxed with this story, Rabbi Herzog stroked his long beard and nodded sadly.

"I know, I know," he said. "These young people need education, then they will learn the value of doing things in the orthodox way. I believe that we can educate them in time."

Many, especially those in the modern cities of Tel Aviv and Haifa, say flatly that this is wishful thinking and that the trend is toward liberalization of religious observance. This the orthodox rabbinate indignantly denies. The Chief Rabbi asserted that all of the sixty-odd thousand Yeminite immigrants now in the country are strictly orthodox. He said the same is true of most of those now streaming in from Iraq. If this is true, and if there are no wholesale deviations, the Religious Front can become a potent political force.

(Evidence of the power already wielded by the church was seen in a recent beauty contest to choose "Miss Israel." All contestants appeared before the audience in evening gowns. The rabbinate had objected so strongly to bathing suits that managers of the contest were forced to give way.)

Churchmen describe the Ben-Gurion government as "anti-clerical" but this seems too strong an indictment. Its position is that in a fight for survival material matters must come first. An instance of this thinking was the granting of permission for the operation of taxis in certain cities and of buses on the steep hills of Haifa on Saturdays. This government action brought a storm of protest from the orthodox. Authorities were fully aware, however, that the badly needed flow of tourist money would soon dry up if visitors were immobilized in their hotels over every Jewish week end.

The lengths to which fanatical groups here will go was demonstrated dramatically when this city was under siege by the Arabs. A convoy bringing food, arms and ammunition fought its way through the Arab lines with heavy casualties. When it rolled triumphantly into the city it was stoned by zealots because the trucks were moving through the streets on the Sabbath.

There is a strong tendency toward segregation, especially among the so-called ultra-orthodox. These people live in separate quarters of the cities; they keep up ancient traditions and styles of dress; they live a life apart. Rabbi Herzog, for many years Chief Rabbi of Eire and far from "ultra" himself, believes that this phase will pass but others are not so sure. One official went so far as to say that there may well be established in Israel the very ghettoes from which, in other parts of the world, the Jews for so long sought escape.

"I am fearful of the effect upon world opinion of our new country," he said, "if anything like that should ever happen."

The Talmud school here and the town of Safed in Galilee, a center for study of the Talmud and the Kabbala since the sixteenth century, point up the separateness of those who seek to preserve Hebrew tradition as handed down from Biblical times. Bearded scholars sit endlessly over heavy, obscure volumes. They know little and care less about wars or rationing or even governments. Many refuse to accept Israel as the Jewish state promised in the Bible; they await the audible voice of Jehovah directing them to the Promised Land.

A visit to the Mea Shearim quarter in company with Harry Sabel, of the government's Public Information Office, demonstrated clearly the difference between the modern and traditional approaches to the religion of the country. It was a hot day and we were bareheaded and in our shirtsleeves. On all sides of us were men in tight-fitting wool coats which fell below their knees. Curls that any woman might envy hung almost to their shoulders beneath broad-brimmed black felt hats.

We turned up a narrow alley bordered on either side by tiny synagogues. As we peered into the windows we were accosted by a tall stranger with a luxuriant red beard. He broke into a volley of Hebrew.

"He says," translated my companion, "that this alley is as much a part of the Jewish church as these synagogues and that we should be wearing hats."

Another exchange in Hebrew.

"This time he asked, 'You'd take off your hats in your Christian church, wouldn't you? Why don't you wear them in ours?'"

Mr. Sabel is, of course, a Jew.

SPORTSMANSHIP — TEAMWORK — UNLIMITED

An eager London crowd applauded the white-clad figures on Lord's famous cricket grounds. It was their first glimpse of a touring Canadian team matched in England's national game against a vaunted MCC Eleven.

To universal surprise, the Canadians set the pace from start to finish . . . scoring 171 to the home team's 95. And in the flush of victory, the Dominion wrested up its 1936 lore with seven wins, seven draws in 14 games.

First! in Canada Unlimited

Sportsmanship and teamwork have won many firsts for Canadians. And sportsmanship, with teamwork, helps you, too. Together they keep your opportunities in work and play...unlimited.

MARRIAGES

WEST-FOX

The marriage of Miss Zelda Fox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fox, 5210 Queen Mary Road, to Steven Irvin West, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis West, 915 Elsmere Place, Bronx, N.Y., took place at Adath Israel Synagogue, on Sunday, September 3, at two o'clock, Rabbi Charles Bender officiating, assisted by Rabbi S. Herschorn. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace, designed with a Chinese-styled neckline; full-length pointed sleeves, and fitted bodice, with Basque-point at the front and back; and full skirt. Her Dutch-styled headdress had a tulle veil, with scalloped lace edging. She carried a Colonial nosegay of red roses, with baby's breath. Mrs. Leon Fillhaber was matron of honor, wearing a pale green net dress, with side and back drapery; and a large, matching picture hat, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Sholam Fillhaber was best man. The synagogue was decorated with gladioli, and seasonal flowers in variety. "Because" was sung; and the choir sang, accompanied by organ music. Receiving at Mirsky's, Mrs. Fox, mother of the bride, wore a blue floor-length dress, designed with V-neckline, accordion-pleated skirt, and three-quarter-length sleeves; with a navy-blue velvet close-fitted hat, and corsage of pink roses. Mrs. West, mother of the groom, wore a toast-colored lace gown, floor-length, and had a black velvet fitted hat, with corsage of yellow roses. The bride and groom spent their wedding trip at Manitou Lodge, in Ivry, the bride travelling in an egg-shell-shaded tailored gabardine suit, with a navy-blue blouse, and accessories. They are living at 244, 196th Street, Bronx, N.Y. Mr. and Mrs. Louis West, parents of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. West, his brother and sister-in-law; Mrs. Frances Fillhaber, his aunt; Sholem Fillhaber, and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Fillhaber, his cousins, all of Bronx; and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. West, and children, Louise and Michael, his brother, sister-in-law, and niece and nephew, all of Williamsport, Pa., were wedding guests.

DWIRE-RUDIN

The marriage of Dianna, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Louis Rudin, of Edmonton, Alberta, to Marc Alexander Dwire, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Dwire, 2376 Melrose Avenue, took place in the garden of the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Mansher, 4914 Isabella Avenue, on Sunday, August 20, at half-past three o'clock, Rabbi Solomon Frank officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a pale blue lace ankle-length gown, fashioned with long, lily-pointed-cuffed sleeves, and full skirt. Her white feather hat held a shoulder-length veil; and her bouquet was of Sweetheart roses. Miss Sheila Levites, the maid of honor, wore a brown nylon dress, over net, with ankle-length skirt, and a cape. Her headdress and Colonial bouquet were of Talisman roses. Meyer Gertman, of Boston, Mass., cousin of the groom, was best man. The canopy was decorated with cedar boughs and gladioli. Receiving at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Heimann, 4940 Isabella Avenue, uncle and aunt of the bride, Mrs. Rudin, mother of the bride, wore a grey crepe afternoon dress, fashioned with a black velvet hat; and had a corsage of flame-colored gladioli. Mrs. Dwire, mother of the groom, wore a beige lace and crepe afternoon dress; a beige velvet hat, with feather trimming and corsage of pink roses. The bride and groom spent their wedding trip in New England, the bride travelling in a grey suit, with navy-blue accessories, and an orchid corsage. They will take up residence at 5365 Victoria Avenue, after October 1. Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Gertman, and Meyer S. Gertman, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rosenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Rittenberg, all of Boston, Mass.; Mrs. Celia Koeppel, of New York; and Mrs. S. Dwire, of Vancouver, B.C., were wedding guests.

Social Notes — Toronto

(Additional Toronto News on Pages Twelve and Thirteen)

A miscellaneous shower at Murray House was held in honour of Miss Pearl Melrose, daughter of Mrs. H. Melrose, Clinton Street, whose marriage to Milton Shopiro, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Shopiro, Harbord Street, takes place on October 15, at Apter Centre. There were about seventy-six guests. The hostesses were: Mesdames Murray Lake, Lowther Avenue, in a dress of blue crepe and lace, with V-neckline, long sleeves, and straight skirt with drapery, and a corsage of yellow roses; J. Cash, Spadina Avenue, in a black velvet dress, trimmed with lace, having a high Peter Pan collar, short sleeves, and full skirt, with corsage of red roses; R. Shopiro, the groom-elect's mother, in a two-piece dress of black silk, with velvet lapels, long sleeves, and slim skirt, with corsage of red and white roses; H. Melrose, the bride-elect's mother, wearing a navy-blue sheer dress, with print design, square neckline, three-quarter-length sleeves, and straight skirt, with corsage of pink carnations. The honouree wore wine-coloured velvet, fashioned with stand-up collar, short sleeves, and skirt gathered at the waistline and falling into soft folds, with corsage of yellow roses. Vari-coloured gladioli, and chrysanthemums composed the table centre-piece. Mrs. S. Macey, of Ottawa, was a guest.

Mrs. Harold Breslin was hostess at a bridal tea in honour of Miss Rita Melvin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Melvin, 123 Beatrice Street, whose marriage to Gilbert Breslin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Breslin, 79 Willowbank Boulevard, will take place on October 17, at Shaarei Shomayim Synagogue. The tea took place at the home of Mrs. M. Auerback, 78 Lascelles Boulevard, where there were one hundred and seventy guests. Mrs. Breslin received, wearing a plaid taffeta afternoon gown, designed with high neckline, trimmed with black velvet, three-quarter-length sleeves, and slim skirt, with corsage of tinted camellias. Mrs. S. Melvin, the bride-elect's mother, was in an afternoon dress of green crepe, having a round neckline, long sleeves, and tunic skirt, with corsage of white gardenias. Mrs. M. M. Auerback wore a black crepe afternoon gown, trimmed with velvet, having a V-neckline, long sleeves, and draped skirt, with white gardenia corsage. The honouree had on a strapless dress of navy-blue eyelet taffeta, with full skirt, matching bolero jacket, and wristlet of white camellias and pink roses. Those who poured were: Mesdames S. Sturman, B. Stone, Frank Jacobson, M. Starkman, J. Breslin, S. Dvoretsky, M. Berenbaum, S. Sternberg, and R. Heller. Assisting were: Mesdames C. Rose, N. Bruner, E. Melvin, I. Soloway, Samuel Soloway, L. Becker, B. Shapiro, L. Starkman, Jack Pearlstein, J. Breslin, Joseph Miller, and B. Tepper, and Misses Eudice Gaffee and Dorothy Jessel. Mrs. S. Breslin and Mrs. H. Gaffe took care of all the arrangements. An oblong centrepiece of vari-coloured roses, hybrid orchids, and mixed flowers, with white candelabra, decorated the table.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Louis Peranson, 18 Winnett Avenue, celebrated the bar-mitzvah of their son, Edwin, brother of Myra; grandson of Mr. and Mrs. L. Reiken, 213 Markham Street; who was called to the Reading of the Law, at the Shaarei Shomayim Synagogue. At a luncheon in the synagogue, one hundred and twenty-five guests were received. Mrs. Peranson wore a navy-blue taffeta afternoon dress, fashioned with high collar, three-quarter-length sleeves, and slim skirt, with corsage of red roses. Mrs. L. Reiken, grandmother of the bar-mitzvah, was in a bronze-coloured crepe dress, trimmed with brown velvet, and having a high collar, long sleeves, and straight skirt, with corsage of white gardenias. Miss Myra Peranson, sister of the bar-mitzvah, wore a dress composed of a brown velvet top, in the V-neckline, three-quarter-length sleeves, and pencil-slim taffeta skirt, with a bronze-coloured orchid corsage. Reuben Reiken, 32 Braemar Avenue, was master of ceremonies. Edwin's cake was in the shape of a large open Bible. He made a speech in English at the luncheon. Mr. and Mrs. N. Peranson, 24 Claxton Boulevard, his godparents, were present. Vari-coloured carnations, roses, and chrysanthemums, adorned the table. M. Aron, of Chicago, Ill., was a guest.

CLASS IN COOKERY

two cups sugar
one cup oil
one cup light or dark honey one-half teaspoon allspice pinch salt
chopped nuts (optional)
one glass strong tea
one teaspoon baking soda
two teaspoons baking powder
two and one-half cups all-purpose flour grated rind of one lemon
vanilla

Beat eggs with sugar; add oil, and mix; then add honey. Then sift together flour, baking powder, allspice and salt, and add alternately to creamed mixture with tea, in which the baking soda was dissolved. At the end, add lemon rind and vanilla; and chopped nuts, if desired. Bake in a slow oven for one hour, about 300 degrees, if using two glass baking dishes or utility pans; and for one and one-half hours if using one large pan for the whole recipe. The recipe can be halved, using exactly one-half of amount for each ingredient, in which case, one baking-dish would be used, and oven time would be one hour. Baking dishes should be greased and floured, and lined with brown paper. Before baking, a small quantity of shredded coconut can be sprinkled on cake dough. This cake keeps well, for at least two or three weeks; and can be sliced and spread with butter for tea-cakes.

Mrs. I. B. Brodie,

5595 Dunmore Avenue, Montreal.

SWEDISH COOKIES

one half cup margarine or shortening
one egg (well beaten)
one teaspoon salt
three quarters cup confectioners sugar two tablespoons caraway seeds
one teaspoon vanilla
one and one-half cup cake flour (sifted) one cup chopped nuts

Cream shortening; then add confectioners sugar, beaten egg and vanilla. Mix caraway seeds with flour and nuts, and blend thoroughly into margarine mixture. Form into roll, wrap in wax paper, and chill thoroughly in refrigerator over night. When chilled slice thinly and bake in 375-degree oven for from twelve to fifteen minutes.

● CANADIAN JEWISH Congress has received 1500 volumes from the homes and the libraries of European Jews who had been massacred by the Germans. In Jewish institutions and libraries in Canada they will be preserved as memorials to their previous owners. A committee headed by Lavy M. Becker, of Montreal, is sorting the books and making arrangements for their distribution and preservation. There are all types of books from children's picture books to prayer books and classics of religious philosophy and literature. They are in Hebrew, Aramaic, Yiddish, English, German, French. Many of them contain the names of their former owners and in some cases family genealogies. Others have inscriptions from the authors or former owners. A large number of these volumes contains the records of early persecutions which the Jews of Europe had survived. Among the books which have now reached Canada is a volume of the Talmud published in Montreal in 1917 which had been used by pious Jews in Europe until its owners lost their lives. Many of these books had been taken from the homes of the persecuted Jews by the Germans and had been placed in a central library of Jewish learning which the Nazis had set up to further their anti-Semitic program. Some of these sacred books contain the swastika stamp of the Nazi library at Frankfurt, Germany. After the war this book collection was found by the allied military and was turned over to Jewish authorities. The Committee for Jewish Cultural Reconstruction has distributed these books to various Jewish representative organizations, including the Canadian Jewish Congress, for final placement.

● NEW WORLD CLUB of Canada: On Saturday, October 23, at 8.30 p.m., at Adath Israel Synagogue, Manfred George, of New York, editor of the "Aufbau", and formerly with the "Vossische Zeitung", who returned from a trip to Israel, will speak on "Jewish Problems In Our Days". Dr. Jul. Pfeiffer is president; Dr. F. Reichman, vice-president.

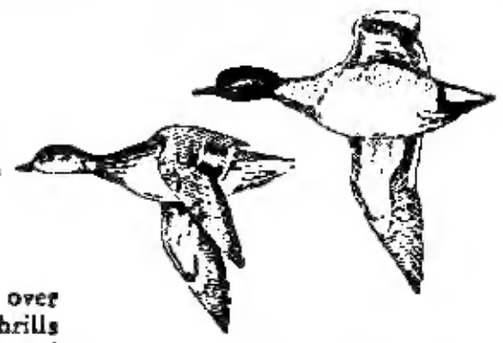
Memo to HUNTERS...



Now is the time when all over Ontario sportsmen enjoy the thrills of hunting. In marshes, fields and forests, hunters make full use of our abundance of wild game.

Now, too, is the time to consider what this implies. If we think for a moment, we must realize that our supply of game is not inexhaustible. That's why we must observe the game regulations.

Game laws are designed to protect our sport—not to restrict it. If we all consider the importance of conservation at this season, and take only what we can use, we'll have better sport tomorrow.

Conserve today for tomorrow's holiday.

The New York Times says: On January 4, 1947, Bernard M. Baruch announced that he was bowing out of public life. There is no reason to doubt that he believed what he said at the time, and the time was in some respects singularly propitious. Since as far back as 1916 Mr. Baruch had been called upon by his Government in one great emergency after another to study the problem and work out a plan for its solution. Now he had just completed the most formidable and important of all this long series of undertaking — a task which amounted to charting a course for a New World, the Atomic Era. On December 30, 1946, the Atomic Energy Commission of the United Nations (with Russia and Poland abstaining) had confirmed his own estimate of his newest plan as "a generous and a just one" by voting 10 to 0 for its adoption. It was the following week that Mr. Baruch declared: "I have come to the end of my furrow. Now I'm going to sit by."

More than three years later, Mr. Baruch is celebrating his eightieth birthday. And we are happy (though by no means surprised) to note that he is celebrating it, not in retirement but in the midst of public life up to the very shoulder blades of his sturdy six-feet-four frame. Indeed, if one may judge by the events of the last three weeks in Washington, Mr. Baruch has never been a more vital force in American affairs than he is at this very moment. On July 27, last, he appeared as an invited witness before the Senate Banking Committee to present his views on the Administration's proposed Defense Production Bill. Up to that point the progress of the measure had been routine and perfunctory. There seemed to be little doubt that it would become law with little if any change. Indeed, on that very day the House Banking Committee had reported its own version of the bill out, 20 to 1. But this was before the full impact of Mr. Baruch's testimony had made itself felt. Addressing the Senate committee, the one-time head of the War Industries Board told its members bluntly that "while many parts of the bill are excellent, it has one major fault which destroys much of its value. It does not go far enough." He went on to urge, among other things, that the President be invested with full wartime powers over prices, wages and profits.

When the Defense Production Bill emerged from the House it had undergone a metamorphosis. It included stand-by authority for the President to employ all of the sweeping powers that had been suggested by Mr. Baruch — powers which the President had not asked for and did not want, and which Congress, up to the time of Mr. Baruch's appearance, apparently had not the slightest intention of giving him.

Someone once referred to Mr. Baruch as the "economic conscience" of the nation. This suggests an infallibility which Mr. Baruch would probably be quick to disavow. Nevertheless, this latest Washington episode is striking testimony of the confidence that the American people and their representatives repose in his economic judgments. Some of the reasons for this are self-evident. Such reasons would include, for example, his rich background of personal experience with the problems of a war economy, and the fact that his views are above considerations of personal gain or political expediency. But no analysis of the unique position occupied by Bernard M. Baruch would be complete, to our mind, which left out the element of reciprocal causation. It would be both surprising and unnatural if he did not enjoy the esteem of his countrymen that is his. For surely no public figure of our time has shown more unswerving confidence than has Mr. Baruch in the American people or a more sincere devotion to those values which add up to the American way of life.

The Danger That Menaces Judaism

BY RABBI MEYER COHEN, OF NEW YORK, SECRETARY OF THE UNION OF ORTHODOX RABBIS OF THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA

In this critical hour, when the fate of nations and mankind at large is hanging in the balance, we, the spiritual leaders of American Jewry, consider it our sacred duty to issue a serious warning to the great Jewish masses on the danger that is menacing Judaism. We have survived two world catastrophies, one more terrifying than the other, which have destroyed millions of Jewish lives and caused incomparable misery and suffering.

The truth must be told! Some of our people placed too much reliance upon broken reeds, and pinned their hopes upon false ideals, the realization of which was erroneously expected to bring liberation and tranquility to humanity and to our people. Misled by the glitter of modern culture and by the high sounding promises of the various "isms", they forsook the fresh and invigorating waters of the fountain of Torah. As a result we find the following deplorable conditions:

Our Sabbath is being flagrantly violated, and its sanctity is being ruthlessly profaned. In some communities the very existence of our holy Sabbath is being entirely ignored.

In the field of Kashruth wanton lawlessness prevails. Multitudes of people are consuming Treife foods and drinks. Some have gone so far as to celebrate bar-mitzvahs and other occasions with banquets of forbidden foods.

The condition prevailing in numerous synagogues is equally lamentable. The synagogue, which has always been the sanctuary of our people, the center of Torah and Tphiloh, is being assailed by anti-Torah forces, who seek the abolition of Mechitzoth between men and women, or the introduction of mixed choirs and the engagement of irreligious cantors. In this way some synagogues are being transformed into Reform temples.

The sanctity of the Jewish family, which has throughout the ages been preserved at great sacrifice, is now being broken. In numerous Jewish communities old and new, Taharath Hamishpocho has reached a vanishing point. They do not even have a Mikvoh.

The results of the enumerated evils are dreadful. To our deep regret and profound sorrow we are witnessing daily an epidemic of mixed marriages, which means complete assimilation.

The falsity and futility of the anti-Torah practices and ideologies have been amply demonstrated in the past few years. None of the modernisms has solved a single human problem. Certainly none of the modernisms has solved a single Jewish problem. On the contrary, these "isms" have been a contributing factor to the aggravation of the Jewish problem.

Fellow Jews! Let us be sincere and acknowledge this fundamental error. Let us stop bringing sacrifices on the altar of these modern ideologies. They are alien to the traditional Jewish mind and incompatible with the sacred teachings of Judaism, as well as with American ideals. Let us save our children from these foreign ideologies while there is still time to do so. Let us go back to our Jewish origin. Let us realize that the Torah is indispensable to the existence of Jewish life and even to the Jewish State, which is the miracle of our age.

To all Jews we reiterate the clarion call of our ancient prophets, "Nachpsoh Drocheinu venachkoroh venoshuvoh". Let us re-examine our ways in sincere penitence. We plead for the adoption of this program:

1) Proper observance of the Sabbath, Kashruth, Taharath Hamishpocho in general and construction of Mikvohoth in particular.

2) A genuine Torah-education for our children.

3) Attending services at Orthodox synagogues and affiliating with their congregations.

4) Combat mixed marriages and all other forms of assimilation.

5) Appoint committees immediately after Rosh Hashonoh to implement and realize this program.

May we all be blessed with long life, good health, abundant happiness, material prosperity and success in our spiritual endeavors for a true Torah life.

(W.J.A.) Prospective emigrants from Poland, according to the "Voice of Zion" (official broadcasting station of the World Zionist Organisation) have been informed by the Polish Government that it favoured the speeding-up of the rate of emigration and wanted it to proceed at a rate which would make it possible "to dispose of the whole problem during the next few months". It is estimated, the broadcast says, that about 20,000 Polish Jews desire to come to Israel. About 750 emigrants from Poland left Venice for Israel in mid-August. This group was the twenty-fourth contingent of emigrants to leave Poland since the Polish Government authorised emigration to Israel in November, 1948.

Secret Faults

Text: "Who can discern errors?
Clear Thou me from hidden faults."
(Psalm 19.13)

On Yom Kippur Day tradition summons us to search our inner world. God on this day is for us the Searcher of the Heart and the One Who knoweth the secrets of the world. In our ritual we speak of the Infinite as "Ato Yodea Rosay Olom". The secret world of our life is the concern of modern psychology and psychiatry and it has ever been the great concern of religion. Today through the technique of confession we verbalize our inner world and recognize that God knows all our secrets.

What man is there who can claim perfection? This is the day when the most successful confess that despite all their achievements there is an inner voice which speaks to them of goals sought and never reached. We confess our failures with the purpose of improving life and seek the help of God to make our life more worthy for ourselves and fellow man. Today we also confess that the secret world which we suppress during the year is inhabited by selfishness and malice. On this Holy Day we recognize that we must battle with the evil impulses of our heart and seek the triumph of the good over evil.

We are entering upon the most dangerous age of all human history. Everyone knows by now that science in its progress has brought mankind to the edge of sudden death. Biological warfare and atomic destruction may already be a death sentence upon us. Why is the average man not frightened and worried by this dreadful fact? Why are we not besieging statesmen and the United Nations organization and raising aloud the demand that war be no more? All this strange emotional lethargy points to the terrible sin of indifference of even the nice people.

Should we Jews alone confess our sins on this day? Should we not ask our Christian neighbours to join with us in the observance of Atonement Day? Utter blank indifference is this world's deepest sin. It is in the world of indifferent people that national racial and religious prejudices flourish. It is the nice indifferent people who make all horrors and wretchedness possible by their unfunctioning niceness, by their pride in the little they know, by their laziness and neutrality. These still-born of the world are the real villains in all recent tragedies. They have no small share in what happened to six million Jews slaughtered by the Nazis.

We are comforted by the fact that at the World Conference of Churches held in Amsterdam, Christendom expressed a feeling of guilt towards the Jews as a result of the tragic annihilation of large Jewish communities in Europe. But the hour has arrived for decisive action on the part of both church and synagogue in order that religious people may truly flesh the teachings of brotherhood in every day living. A Day of Atonement must come to the whole world and healing must replace hatred all over the world so that the round earth may be our home.

We need to have faith in people, compassion for people, whether they have white faces, brown faces, or black faces. If the globe is to function as a unit a faith must develop based on the acceptance that no nation, no religion, no group is better or worse than any other. Let us therefore, on this day, pray for the salvation of the United Nations which seemingly is rushing towards the tragic fate which befell the League of Nations.

Throughout the days of the year, the life-wish is given emphasis in our Judaism. But during these days of awe which finds its culmination on Yom Kippur, tradition calls upon us to reflect upon death and not to suppress the reality of death. That is the reason why during these Yomim Neroim we are called upon to visit the resting place of our dear departed; that is why, too, our fathers on Yom Kippur Day would dress in white symbolic of the burial shrouds, and that is why, too, on this day we observe a special memorial service in loving tribute to our departed.

Our ritual of the day dramatizes for us the fact that death is the inevitable goal for each and every one of us. However, there is a tendency on the part of all of us to negate the reality of death. It is supposed to come always around the corner. And this emphasis on death on Yom Kippur is meant to drive home to us the pricelessness of life and to make us realize that because life is brief and ends in death we must cherish the gift of life and make it a noble adventure for ourselves and our dear ones. All of us, no matter how long we might live, must realize that we have but little time to invest in kindness, in compassion, and in goodness so that in our going from this earth, we may leave an inspiring memory and a noble example for those who are to follow us. Let us not, therefore, waste our years in idleness, unkindness, brotherlessness, and in bitterness. Let us consider each day a perfect gift from God and make that day beautiful and meaningful. Because life is a passing shadow we must pray that our years on earth be cherished as precious and made noble.

Thus, with the ancient Psalmist we pray on this Holy Day, "Clear Thou, O God, us from hidden faults and give us the strength to rise above our inadequacy, to conquer our inner malice and, last but not least, grant us the wisdom to count our days and make them meaningful for ourselves and those with whom we come in contact."

JEWS OVERSEAS

of rabbis, to be held in Europe, whose immediate purpose would be the strengthening of intra-Jewish community ties and whose ultimate end would be the establishment of a permanent board or federation of world rabbinical leaders.

Rabbi Gordon announced that he would issue an immediate appeal to the American rabbinate to devote sermons to the endorsement of the United Jewish Appeal, which, mainly through its affiliate, the American Joint Distribution Committee, "has made a herculean contribution to Jewish spiritual survival in virtually every Jewish community overseas" and which "has averted innumerable catastrophies through its farflung program of education and health rehabilitation."

"Our objection," commented the Mizrachi leader, "is that if Israel is to be built on solid economic foundations, there is need to encourage all types of production, and thereby to increase the possibilities of large-scale employment. Schemes such as this rationing device work in exactly the opposite direction."

He also said that the entire social and economic program which Minister Joseph represents is destroying private initiative in Israel, is lowering drastically the productive output of the country, destroying the peoples' confidence in Israel's money, and encouraging panic-buying. "Fearing they can't buy anything under rationing," he declared, "people in Israel today are wildly disposing of their money, buying such absurd things as twenty pressure cookers at a time, whole cases of lipstick, and other such nonsensical purchases."

Manufacturers are steadily going out of business, Rabbi Rosenberg said, because the people are prevented from making any purchases above their very minimum needs, and thereby provide no business for private merchants. He emphasized that Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion and Finance Minister Eliezer Kaplan, well aware of the harmful effects of this program, are trying to correct it. Mr. Ben-Gurion, he added, has agreed to change this economic programming. "But our argument is that such regulations cannot continually be issued and then recalled for revision. What Mizrachi demands with the United Religious Bloc, is that the entire policy of the government be completely revaluated so that such individualistic schemes as that of Minister Joseph do not recur." Actually, he continued, the major problem of the Mizrachi's relationship to the government is not one of principle, but rather one of administration. The danger is that once a principle is agreed upon it becomes perverted in the hands of individual administrators.

Rabbi Rosenberg said that all matters relating to export and import, and to encouraging production in the country should be returned to the auspices of the Ministry of Commerce and Industry which should be under the charge of a ranking Cabinet Minister, one who is sympathetic to both collective and private enterprise and who will enable both to contribute equally to the upbuilding of the country. He said that his movement is also disappointed on the government's implementation of agreements reached on religious questions. He charged that there has been persistent violation of religious agreements which were the basis of Mizrachi's entering the coalition. Involved in the religious issues are 1) the import of non-kosher meat, 2) public observance of the Sabbath, and 3) religious education in immigrant camps.

He charged that Minister Joseph, by importing non-kosher meats into Israel, was discriminating against religious Jews and was denying them equality of opportunity with other segments of the population. He said that Mr. Joseph was importing these meats which are forbidden to observant Jews without consulting the government. "Those who eat non-kosher meats, can eat kosher meat; those who eat only kosher meat cannot eat the non-kosher meat imports. So it is a question of simple democracy; why import that which discriminates against a large part of the population, when it is just as easy to import that which the entire population needs and can enjoy?" Rabbi Rosenberg asked.

This situation is worsened, he added, in view of the fact the government does not permit the import of meat other than that which the government itself imports. That means, he continued, that even if outside parties wish to send Israel kosher meat imports for the benefit of Orthodox Jews, they would not be permitted to do so. The Mizrachi, therefore, insists that the Israel Government import that which everyone can use and which is in accordance with an agreement adopted by the provisional government of Israel.

On the question of Sabbath, he stated, public utilities such as trains and buses are not permitted to operate on the Sabbath in accordance with a Cabinet decision, but here, too, "petty bureaucrats" completely ignore such decisions. Mizrachi, therefore, demands that the government achieve better administration of its official policy which, without proper implementation, is meaningless. He said that the accusations of the religious bloc against officials who refused to allow religious education in immigrant camps where the vast majority of the people were religious Jews, were vindicated by a Government inquiry commission which recommended a series of measures to improve the condition of education in the camps.

SAYS JEWS HERE

Jews everywhere and to Israel in particular."

"Our success or failure," he added, "depends in a large measure on our cooperation with, and on the strength of, the great Jewish community of the United States and we, therefore, are anxious that nothing should be said or done which could in the slightest degree undermine the sense of security and stability of American Jewry."

In emphasizing that his nation was confronted with tasks that "would appeal to the American genius for technical development and social progress," the Prime Minister declared that "the decision as to whether they wish to come permanently or temporarily — rests with the free discretion of each American Jew himself; it is entirely a matter of his volition."

The Prime Minister also declared that the "essence of Chalutziuth (pioneering) is free choice," adding that "they will come from among those who believe that their aspirations as human beings and as Jews can best be fulfilled by living and working in Israel."

He expressed the conviction that American Jews would continue "to make a major contribution towards our great effort of reconstruction."

Mr. Blaustein declared that Prime Minister Ben-Gurion's views on the political separation of Israeli Jews and those outside of the country were strongly supported by President Chaim Weizmann.

Pleading for the extension of President Truman's Point Four program to Israel "in an adequate rate," Mr. Blaustein declared that "Israel is the best friend America ever had in the Near East." He stressed the democratic ideals and principles of Israel, holding that the Israeli population never would submit to a totalitarian form of government or dictatorship.

(W.J.A.) The World Jewish Congress has sent a message of good wishes to B. Teichholz, president of the International Committee of Former Jewish Inmates of Concentration Camps in Vienna, which has just completed the fifth year of its activities.
